ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Augusta Genealogical Society, Inc. is indebted to the following for their contributions toward making possible this Special Publication in its Ancestoring Monograph Series.

T. THEODORE THOMPSON, who worked miracles with his computer to produce a comprehensive master index of the names in the first ten volumes of Ancestoring, then went the extra mile to provide a Topical Index and a Geographic Index to speed his fellow genealogists on their way in the pursuit of elusive ancestors.

ANCESTORING STAFFS, who meticulously transcribed old journals, Bibles, court records, tombstones, church registers, censuses, voter lists, naturalizations, etc., then typed, proofread, and put it all together for publication. Also, to Ancestoring's

AUTHORS, who took time from their own family history compilations to write of historical events, customs, reminiscences, etc. as backgrounders for other researchers.

AGS PRESIDENT RUSSELL R. MOORES, for providing the Society with firm leadership, and for his encouragement and support of members who are fulfilling the Society's goal of publishing useful genealogical/historical data.

PREFACE

The Augusta Genealogical Society began publication of its official journal, Ancestoring, in 1980. Each issue has contained several thousands of individual-name entries from cemeteries and other rich resource records in the Central Savannah River Area of Georgia and South Carolina. In addition to the data lists so important to genealogists, background articles are permitted by the journal's magazine format. Such articles are intended to provide a framework of the times in which ancestors lived, to enable one to fashion a more complete picture of his forebears' day-to-day existence. The period from the early 1700s to the early 1900s is covered in data lists and articles.

Each of the journals contains an all-name index. However, subjects and place names have not heretofore been indexed.

A cumulative index for the first ten volumes of Ancestoring is produced in this volume. It indexes not only all names, but provides a Topical and Geographic Index as well, giving quick access to all materials published in the ten volumes. For added convenience, tables of contents for the ten volumes are on the following pages.

It is to be noted that in Ancestoring, and in this index, no attempt is made to correct possible spelling errors. In all cases, names are presented exactly as they were found in the original records.
